Dr. Lyon's GOAT HERDER TAKES PLACE OF THE Camp Madero, Once Active, Now a Deserted Strip of Scenery.

Camp Madero is as deserted as a last year's bird's nest. The "casa blanca," where Madero held his presi-Traveling El Pasoans can get The dential court, has been reoccupied by the brick works employes, the river has sliced away a section of the parade ground where the motly army paraded before the moving picture machine on May 5th, and the bleak hills where the raging insurrecto army was encamped are more bare and more bleak than they were before the invasion by the army of liberation. The only sign of life on the Mexican side opposite the smelter is a goat herder tending his shaggy animals and he only serves to emphasize the lone. liness of the scene. The canyons and arroya where the revolutionary army was camped before the battle have lost all traces of the conquering horde. The rains have washed out the little dugouts that served the soldiers for shelter houses, the canyon where Madero negotiated his first peace protocol is washed full of sand from the foothills and the trail over the hill which connected the diminutive leader with his army is no longer packed hard but is overgrown with greaseweed.

The brilliant colors of the variagated zerapes and flags of the vagabond army are lacking to break the duil monotony of the mountains and mesas. Nature has resumed her normal state what was one the parade ground, maneuver camp and base of attack for the valiant army of liberation, now the army of the republic.

INSURRECTOS WANT TO GET THE PLACES

Make Application for Vacant Positions in Fiscal Guards.

The insurrecto soldiers in Cludad Juarez want the vacancies that occur in the fiscal guards service filled by members of the Juarez garrison There are about 50 places to be filled in the mounted customs service. The district extends from Cludad Juarez to Villa Ahumada and since the new government has taken hold of the affairs of Mexico, there have been many vacant places in the service.

The soldiers have made their de-mands known at the Cludad Juarez customs house and messages have been sent to headquarters in Mexico City asking that the insurrectos be appointed to these places. No answer has been received from headquarters. The positions in the mounted customs service pay well and the insur-rectos think that they should be ap-pointed to them. A similar demand was made early in July by Blanco's soldiers but the officials in Mexico
